The Ward-Belmont School

WARD-BELMONT is a union of Ward Seminary and Belmont College. The school stands in a beautiful hilltop park of thirty acres, embowered in trees and shrubs which represent the artistic planting and cultivation of sixty years. A direct car service gives quick connection with railway station, shopping districts and churches of all denominations; yet the school is sufficiently removed to give that quiet and inspiring environment which is conducive to studious habits. The e'even buildings combine the very best in modern school architecture. In literary work, in Music, Art, Expression, Home Economics, and Physical Training, the facilities of Ward-Belmont meet the exacting demands of a most discriminating patronage. Nashville is the center of Southern education and culture and the peerless winter climate of the beautiful blue grass region of Tennessee contributes much to the school's unsurpassed record for good health. In this favored city young women from the best homes of the South, East and West meet in delightful and profitable association to enjoy the advantages of an institution of national prestige and patronage.
